

Investment process in practice - Q1 2026

Each standing claim from our presentation, mapped to what we actually did this quarter - so you can verify we do what we say.

WHAT WE SAY (the standing claim)	WHAT WE DID (Q1 2026)
 Selective; we won't force deployment.	Held ~6.9% cash and flagged difficulty finding value; we are sourcing in the UK and Japan rather than chase an expensive market.
 Buy quality at a discount.	Core holdings are dominant franchises bought on value - Auto Trader (~10x its nearest rival), Rightmove (~80% of portal time), Somero (~80% global share) at a cyclical low, TBK on ~2x normalised earnings.
 Agreement before capital; determined, not forced, sellers.	Tendered Zalaris into Norvestor's NOK 100 cash offer (+37% on the day) - sold on a fair-value trigger, on the facts, not sentiment.
 We create the value from the boardroom.	Tempest: progressing a Lex Asea spin-off and a buyback / redemption of cash. TBK: pursuing the operational plan to lift margins toward 10%.
 Returns from earnings, not re-rating.	Operating profit grew across the book - Roko EBITA +5% (SEK 415m), Tempest operating result up (sales +11%), TBK EBIT JPY 1.50bn (from 0.94bn).
 Low cadence, high conviction.	17 positions, the ten largest ~84% of NAV; no new platform forced in a quarter where we judged the market expensive.

Risk process in practice - Q1 2026

The same map for risk - each safeguard, with the Q1 evidence that we applied it.

WHAT WE SAY (the standing claim)	WHAT WE DID (Q1 2026)
 No leverage at the fund.	Gross exposure 85.3% = net exposure 85.3% - zero fund-level leverage, with ~6.9% cash.
 Sized and measured so no mark dominates.	17 positions; downside risk 8.7%, 1-day 95% VaR 1.5%; a full liquidity profile disclosed (22.5% of NAV within one day).
 Diversification across exposures.	Spread across Nordic, UK and Japanese listings and across software, industrials, gaming, media and resources.
 Mechanised discipline, not emotion.	Acted on the Zalaris fair-value trigger; held cash rather than relax the valuation bar in a market we find expensive.
 Quality cores; avoid permanent loss.	The book is concentrated in durable market leaders; speculative exposure is limited and disclosed (e.g. NGEx held as exploration optionality).
 Independent checks and full disclosure.	Performance sourced from StatPro; figures reconciled, with open items (liquidity placeholders, unit flags) listed explicitly for verification.
